

Welcome to your team meeting

Time: _____

Place: _____

Contact info: _____

The meeting does not require any special preparations from your family

It is important to listen to and understand all family members

"This was the first time I left the meeting feeling very relieved and it felt like we got to the core issues. We agreed on practices that took a lot of the burden off my shoulders, leaving more resources to improve the parenting situation."

Professionals combine their expertise to find the best forms of support with you

We discuss together your child's and your family's situation, relationships, and other resources, strengths, and needs for change

If you wish, other professionals or a close person important to the family, such as a grandparent or friend, can also be invited

"We want to hear your and your family's wishes and thoughts. We strive to find ways that can help you, and we look for important people who can support your family towards a better situation."
